The Khareef Festival

The Khareef Festival held in Salalah each year is best described as a cultural extravaganza. What makes the event very special is that while the rest of the region is reeling under sweltering temperatures, Salalah experiences cooling rains from the southwest monsoon winds that leave the landscape verdant and mist-soaked.

The phenomenon of rain-bearing fog is locally known as 'Khareef' and the season starts in late June and ends in late September. The festival itself is usually held over a six-week period from mid-July until the end of August. The event promotes the Dhofar region and hosts a variety of cultural, sports, and entertainment activities.

Organised by the Dhofar Municipality, the Khareef Festival is promoted as a complete family event and the Baladiya Entertainment Centre was purpose-built as the venue. The facility comprises a main theatre, an open-air theatre, a heritage village as well as extensive fairgrounds.

The Khareef Festival is an excellent showcase of the best in entertainment, culture and arts from Oman and the rest of the region. Plays, folkloric shows, concerts by prominent Arab and Gulf singers, a kite festival, children's theatre, heritage village and an Omani poetry forum are some of the attractions, where culture, heritage and modernity intertwine. Salalah's Tourism Festival runs from mid-July to late-August, with the Khareef extending to the end of September.

Cultural Theatre Program

Every year, during the period from December to the end of March, the Ministry of Tourism organises a number of cultural evenings at the ancient Al Flayj Castle Theatre, hosting popular groups from around the world. The Ministry also organises similar evenings in Al Morooj Theatre, Salalah, Dhofar Governorate.
